

How your deductible plan works

For GIC members of the Direct Care and Select Care plans

Chances are, you're already familiar with the idea of a deductible. A deductible is a specific payment made toward the cost of a claim. In the case of health insurance, your deductible is a set dollar amount that you must pay out of your pocket before your health insurance provider will pay for certain medical services.

Preventive versus diagnostic—and why you need to know the difference.

As a general rule, you do not have to pay a deductible for preventive services. For these types of services, you may have to pay a copayment (where you pay a set dollar amount for services) or coinsurance (where you pay a percentage of the cost). However, once you've paid your deductible in full for the year, you won't pay toward your deductible again until the following year.

What is considered "preventive?" Something you have done routinely or regularly to prevent illness, such as getting a flu shot. But if you go to the doctor every few months to monitor an existing illness to prevent it from getting worse, that's considered treatment, or a diagnostic service. For example, if you have diabetes and go in for a quarterly checkup for bloodwork, that's a diagnostic service.

With Direct Care, there is a maximum amount of $400 that any one family member will pay towards the deductible. For families of two or more, that amount is $800.

With Select Care, there is a maximum amount of $500 that any one family member will pay towards the deductible. For families of two or more, that amount is $1,000.

This chart shows you what services are subject to the deductible, what services are not, and for what services you will only have to pay a copayment.

You pay your deductible then no charge:	You have a copayment then pay your deductible:	Covered in full* with no deductible and no copayment:	No deductible, copayment only:
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Diagnostic services (lab tests, X-rays, EKGs, etc.) • Ambulance • Skilled nursing 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Inpatient hospital stays • Same-day surgery • Imaging (CAT, PET, MRI scans; nuclear cardiology) • Emergency room visit (copayment waived if you are admitted to the hospital) 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Annual wellness visits with your PCP • Preventive screenings, including: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Cholesterol screenings • Hepatitis C screenings • HIV testing • Hypertension screenings • Immunizations • Lead testing • Mammograms • Pap tests • Routine urinalysis 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Office visits for illness or injury with a PCP or specialist • Chiropractic care • Short-term rehabilitation services • Speech therapy

Remember, this is a snapshot of how your deductible plan works. For complete plan details, please refer to Direct Care or Select Care Member Handbook and Schedule of Benefits. If you have any questions about your health insurance plan, please call us.

1-866-344-4442 (TRS 711)
fallonhealth.org/gic

* Diagnostic services are sometimes performed during routine annual exams. You should talk to your doctor about all services being done so you aren't surprised by any charges.